Subzero Thermo-Pack Insulation package

is standard on Tradition and encases the entire structure resulting in better year round comfort control of your extended travel suite. Residential style High Density Wool Insulation is utilized in the roof, side walls, sub-floor assembly and is even added to the underbelly frame space. High density wool provides improved efficiency by filling any voids, and we even take the extra step to glue-apply the wool within the walls to totally eliminate settling.

Just compare!

Many RVs use rigid block foam. Although a good insulator, this method leaves too many uninsulated voids which greatly compromises the efficiency. Others use only a thin reflective foam barrier, not practical for multi-season extended stay travel.

EcoBatt High Density Wool Insulation is derived from renewable materials.

The Tradition Advantage

Standard 1-Touch Automatic Leveling

Optional rear 2" hitch receiver.

Optional TrailAir® Air Ride pin box provides a smoother ride plus better handling while minimizing noise and vibration.

Standard Level-Up™ provides maximum stability with six heavy duty hydraulic jacks.

TrailAir® EquaFlex Suspension is standard. Kodiak Disc Brake Package, that includes 8000 lb capacity axles, is available as an option.

All aluminum sills and wall studs are mechanically joined and the aluminum sill tubing is fully reinforced internally with wood, providing greater strength and stability when it is "bolted-through", never screwed, to the sub-floor structure and the steel frame below.

A DRV EXCLUSIVE

Thicker side walls allow for high density wool insulation, with an integrated 1/4" thick foam core moisture barrier, to eliminate condensation and add an additional insulating moisture barrier layer.

The coach and slide outs have aluminum wall studs and roof trusses positioned 16" on-centers, and the aluminum sub-floor joists are 14" on-center. Residential style high density wool insulation, in the side walls, is glued into place to prevent future settling. All spaces and voids are filled with wool insulation as well.

High density wool insulation blankets the underbelly frame spaces and the flooring assembly, to provide added protection for the water systems. Perimeter heating features 6" ducts and custom plenum with 5-duct heating.

The large pass-through basement storage area is felt lined and provides abundant space for extended travel lifestyles. The copper water manifold system is easily accessible and heavy duty basement doors open easily and close securely with two gas assist lift arms and lockable slam latches.

The exclusive StepUp, power 4-step entry, is a revolutionary feature that provides added stability in the step, push button control for easy set-up, and eliminates the inconvenience of wrestling the conventional entry steps in/out every time you travel. The powerful twin motors extend/retract the step in seconds and with all the extra welds we have eliminated the "sag" effect seen on other 4-step entry's.
